

Kunming-Montreal Global Biodiversity Framework

We determined for BirdLife where Switzerland stands on the path to achieving the goals of the Kunming-Montreal Global Biodiversity Framework. According to our analysis, there is a considerable need for action in Switzerland with regard to various targets. Our study shows how these targets can be achieved.

Our services

- Analyze where Switzerland stands with respect to the targets of the Kunming-Montreal Global Biodiversity Framework and their achievement, based on the national biodiversity and sustainability indicators, current legislation and literature; and what is still needed for Switzerland to achieve the targets
- Identify directions and strategies on how to achieve these targets
- Identify measures that are already being implemented and propose measures that could still be taken, based on existing literature and discussions with experts
